RAISING PAY PROVES HARD PROBLEM FOR B.C.'S GOVERNMENT

Not Attempting to Increase Wages Hurriedly Says Minister of Labor—Capitalism Best System to Work Under at Present—Admits Many Difficulties of Industrial Board

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—Raising the pay of the low-priced worker to the highest possible minimum, to the satisfaction of all parties, was a great problem facing the Government in the carrying out of its wage laws, Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, told members of the automotive section of the Retail Merchants' Association here tonight.

The minister said the Government is not attempting to hurriedly raise wages, but rather taking the matter in hand slowly in an endeavor to overcome the difficulties which face the various industries. The Board of Industrial Relations had already brought about increases in wages amounting to more than $500,000 a month.

MUST BE REASONABLE
Mr. Pearson warned the gathering, before they press the Government to establish codes in a certain industry, to be sure to ask for only those things that can be enforced.

"Capitalism is the best system to work under at the present time. We are not a Socialist Government at Victoria, regardless of what anybody may say."

"When we see an industry working with fair wages, we leave it alone," he said. In regard to the Hours of Work Act, there were many requests for exemptions, "but these will not be granted unless it is for an entire industry," he declared. Mr. Pearson was speaking on "Some Phases of the Labor Laws of British Columbia."

EXPERIENCES IN TRADE
The minister touched on his experiences as a retailer on Vancouver Island before he turned to politics, and expressed himself in sympathy with the labor movement.

HEPBURN FIRM IN OPPOSITION

Ontario Premier Leaves No Doubt as to Stand on Seaway Pact

TORONTO, Oct. 23 (CP).—Premier Mitchell H. Hepburn, of Ontario, tonight left no doubt regarding his position on the St. Lawrence Seaway project when he declared that as long as he was Premier of the province he would not ratify the agreement reached between Ontario and the Dominion Government in 1922.

Announcing his opposition to the agreement calling for construction of the seaway, the Premier said:

"If Ottawa thinks my Government is going to pass legislation to validate that agreement they have another thing coming. I certainly never will authorize any such legislation. And that's that."

REASONS FOR STAND
Mr. Hepburn already had expressed opposition to the seaway, claiming it would create a power surplus and that Ontario and Quebec at present were generating more power than they could use. He also mentioned the railway situation and hard times prevailing, maintaining it was not feasible to embark on such a large project at the present.

Under the 1922 agreement the Dominion was to assume cost of works for navigation purposes, and the province was to pay for power production structures and equipment, the two Governments dividing the cost of works for use as joint navigation and power facilities. The Ontario Government, however, took no legislative action.

AGELLO SETS NEW AIR-SPEED MARK

Italian Pilot Flies at Four Hundred and Forty Miles an Hour Over Lake Garda

DESSENZANO, Italy, Oct. 23 (AP).—The "crazy boy" of Italian aviation, thirty-two-year-old Lieutenant Francesco Agello, soared through space today faster than ever man has flown before.

In the crisp autumn air over Lake Garda he roared his low-winged, g-nosed seaplane, constructed in secret, at 440 miles an hour, unofficial figures, to better his own world's speed mark by thirty miles an hour.

The same name Agello is setting his last record, but if he is for another speed attempt a new Fiat A-8 6-V type developing 3,500 horsepower, today's flight

Cup Won by Scott and Black

Here is the gold cup that will be presented to C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black, winners of the England to Australia air race, along with a cash prize of $50,000. The prizes are presentations of Sir Macpherson Robertson, of Melbourne, Australia.

Bag of Balloon Wrecked in Landing in Ohio—Gondola and Scientific Instruments Undamaged—Purpose of Flight Accomplished in Eight-Hour Ascent From Detroit

CADIZ, O., Oct. 23 (AP).—The stratosphere flight of the Jean Piccards came to an end in a tree top, late today. The bag of his balloon was badly torn but the gondola and valuable instruments were undamaged and the Piccards themselves were unhurt.

TORNADO KILLS WAR VETERANS

Roars Through Relief Camp Bringing Death, Injury and Destruction

MARYVILLE, Mo., Oct. 23 (AP).—A devastating tornado killed two Great War veterans at a relief camp, late today, and injured approximately twenty others as it roared and twisted through the camp buildings and wrecked residences in the heart of this North-western Missouri city.

Guy Allen, of Shelbyville, Mo., and Ralph E. Hare, whose home is believed to be St. Louis, were killed as the barracks of the camp, located within the northeastern city limits, collapsed on them. The camp is a civilian conservation unit for unemployed veterans.

"It was horrible," said Lieut. Thomas Taylor, in charge of the camp, in telling vividly how six of the buildings were wrecked, one of them blown on top of the other, as many of the more than 200 men lay flat on the ground outside, while others huddled in places of refuge inside the tottering walls.

DOUMERGUE TO FORCE REFORM

French Premier Will Appeal to People if Thwarted by Parliament

PARIS, Oct. 23 (AP).—Premier Gaston Doumergue told the Cabinet today he will force the programme of constitutional reform and will appeal directly to the people if Parliament balks on any point. A national assembly of the Chamber of Deputies and Senate sitting at Versailles, is expected soon to consider the five proposals advanced by Doumergue, to bolster the power of Premier and President. They are:

1. To make it easier for the President to dissolve the chamber.
2. To make the Premier a real "boss" by giving him greater authority over his Cabinet members.
3. To strip the chamber of the right to propose appropriations and reserve that power to the Government.
4. To define the rights of functionaries and limit their ability to put pressure on the Government.
5. To enable the Government to extend the budget for a second year if Parliament fails to vote on time.

Calling of the national assembly to strengthen executive powers is France's defence against dictatorial governments surrounding her in Europe and against the need for prompt Government action in time of crisis.

Hundred Million Authorized for Italy's Air Force

ROME, Oct. 23 (AP).—New efficiency in the air for Italy was provided for today by Premier Mussolini, acting as Minister of Aviation, and Guido Jung, Minister of Finance, in a bill they presented to the Chamber of Deputies. The bill authorizes the expenditure of 1,200,000,000 lire—$100,000,000—for "the complete renewal of airplanes and accessory material."

STRIKE AGAIN AT CHURCH

Mexican Gov't Seeking to End "Seditious Activities" of Catholics

MEXICO, D.F., Oct. 23 (AP).—Seeking to end what the Federal Government terms seditious and rebellious activities by Catholic elements, authorities of the State of Guerrero struck another severe blow at the church today.

Leopoldo Diaz Escudero, Bishop of Chilpancingo, and all Catholic priests were given seventy-two hours to leave the state under penalty of "seditious activities" if they fail to comply with the orders.

The Legislature of the State of Mexico, meeting at Toluca, first decreed the closing of all churches in that state and the banning of religious ceremonies, but later voted to reconsider.

Scott Plane Is Built of B.C. Spruce

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—Silver spruce from the forests of Queen Charlotte Islands, B.C., was used in the construction of the plane with which C. W. A. Scott and T. C. Black won the London-to-Melbourne air race. The local company supplying the wood received advice to this effect from London today.

During the war the strong, light and flexible spruce from the Queen Charlotte Islands was shipped by the Imperial Munitions Board in large quantities for the making of war planes. Since then, it has been in high favor as aircraft material.

TANKER SURVIVES FURY OF TYPHOON

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23 (AP).—A radio message relayed to The Globe wireless station here tonight reported that the tanker Larry Dooney, adrift with forty of a crew, after weathering the fury of a mid-Pacific typhoon, was now "safe from immediate danger."

The message was relayed from The Globe station at Manila, where it was received from the Norwegian Motorship Danwood, 900 miles from Yokohama, en route to Melbourne.

Navy radio, a short time later, announced receipt of a message from Guam, stating that the Dooney, badly damaged, was proceeding toward Guam for emergency repairs. The message did not make clear whether the tanker was moving under her own power or in tow of another vessel.

LABOR REGAINS LAMBETH SEAT

G. R. Strauss Wins by Large Majority Over Liberal in By-Election

LONDON, Oct. 23 (CP).—Labor gained a seat in the House of Commons today when G. R. Strauss was elected by a large majority in the four-cornered by-election in the riding of North Lambeth.

Strauss received 11,281 votes, against 4,968 for J. W. Simpson, Liberal; 2,927 for I. F. Markham, National Labor, and 308 for Mrs. Alice Brown, Independent Imperialist.

The Labor Party gained the seat from the Liberal ranks. The by-election was necessitated by the death of F. Briant, Liberal.

SHOWS SHARP SWING

The figures indicated a sharp swing from the Liberal to the Labor candidate since the general election of 1924. At that time Mr. Briant was elected by a majority of 7,903 votes over Mr. Strauss.

The vote was: Briant, 16,368; Strauss, 8,766.

It was the forty-fifth by-election since the general election three years ago. In thirty-eight of them the standing was unchanged, Labor has gained one seat from the Conservative ranks and has recovered six lost in the general election to other parties. North Lambeth is in the last class, having been held by Mr. Strauss prior to 1921.

Youth Allowed Out on Suspended Sentence

NANAIMO, Oct. 23.—After deliberating forty minutes, the jury at the Fall Assizes, with Justice Murphy presiding, brought in a verdict for conviction of William McPadden, eighteen-year-old Balfour Island youth, on a charge of breaking and entering. Constable Gardner, Buchner, and Constable Smith, who were on duty at the time, were called to the stand. He was allowed out on suspended sentence, after the judge severely lectured him.

SPRING IN THE ROCKIES

HAMILTON, Mont., Oct. 23 (AP).—Although the calendar says it's close to Winter, it's Springtime in the Rockies. Warm rains have caused buds to swell here, and a new crop of grass carpets the Blister Root Valley.

English Pilots Receive Many Messages of Congratulation

MELBOURNE, Oct. 24 (CP-AP).—The Dutch and United States airplanes in the great London-to-Melbourne Derby taxied across the finish line here today to decide the lesser prize winners in the great air-speed race.

Two hours forty-four minutes after the flying team from the Netherlands, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, had flashed past the pylons at Flemington race course, the Americans, Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, brought their big transport plane in before a wildly cheering throng.

STORM TOLL IS MOUNTING

Death List in Washington Nineteen—Property Loss $1,000,000

SEATTLE, Oct. 23 (AP).—Seattle and Western Washington gained an unexpected respite from a more stormy weather tonight, in the wake of Sunday's gale, which took nineteen lives and caused an estimated $1,000,000 damage, when a storm warning which had been flying through the day was ordered lowered.

Although remaining a threat to this area, a storm hovering over the Gulf of Alaska shows no immediate indication of moving in this direction. The Weather Bureau announced: A part of it passed inland far to the north of here tonight. Showers and moderate temperatures were predicted here for tomorrow.

Train Racing After Record To New York

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 23 (AP).—An aluminum train rocketed over the rails tonight, in an historic dash across the continent.

The Union Pacific's streamlined flyer raced down the mountain slopes and gilded swiftly onto the great plains. It made up thirteen minutes lost in negotiating the rugged hills and was abreast of the schedule designed to bring it to New York in the record-smashing time of sixty hours.

The speed was to be stepped up from about fifty-five to eighty-two miles an hour in the flat terrain east of Cheyenne, Wyo.

B.C. Lumber Export Improved by Fifty Per Cent in Period

Nearly 700,000,000 Board Feet Sent Out by Water Borne Shipments From Province During First Nine Months—Britain Doubles Orders

BRITISH Columbia enjoyed a 50 per cent increase in water-borne lumber and timber exports for the first nine months this year, according to figures announced yesterday by E. C. Manning, Assistant Chief Forester. The actual movement between January and September, inclusive, was 695,547,070 board feet, compared with 464,429,469 board feet in the similar period last year.

Great Britain doubled purchases from 158,637,077 board feet in nine months, last year, to 336,767,244 board feet in the same period this year. Australia increased orders from 92,066,328 board feet to 97,211,469 board feet. Japan, increased buying from 43,642,970 board feet, to 52,327,087 board feet. Orders from China declined from 91,077,729 board feet to 82,456,071 board feet. Continental destinations took 27,693,600 board feet, compared with 26,996,367 in nine months last year.

KILLED BY FALL OF REFUSE COAL

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP).—Four boys were killed, two were injured and from ten to fifteen others are believed to have perished tonight under a culm bank which collapsed on them while they were digging refuse coal at the Henry Collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company in Plains, near Wilkesbarre.

Rescue squads began work with sam shovels, picks and hand shovels.

Frank Wagner, vice-president of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, which leased the digging to the Exeter Fuel Company, estimated 1,600 tons of culm fell on the youths.

WANT REPORT ON AID HOME

Council Views Extra Vote for Grant as Time to Consider Old Policy

Advisability of re-establishing the Children's Aid Home, which was abandoned more than a year ago, when the society decided to place all children in private homes, was revived at the City Council meeting on Monday, when the Children's Aid Society was asked to submit a report on the matter. The request was coupled with the voting of an extra grant of $700, above the $4,000 placed in the budget for the Children's Aid Society.

Mayor David Leeming explained that the cost of the society had risen to $4,700 in 1933 in so far as the city's grant was concerned, but that with the change in policy, that of putting the children in private homes, it was expected that the cost would be reduced. This, however, has not been the case.

Aldermen Alex Peden and James Adam pointed out that with the abandonment of the institution, a great deal of public support had been lost. At one time, they contended, 40 per cent of the society's funds were publicly subscribed.

DECADES OF PROGRESS

Victorian Period Closes

The last decade of Queen Victoria's long reign saw business rise from a trough of depression on an advancing wave of prosperity. Canada's century was dawning.

In 1897, the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, Mr. D. R. Wilkie, General Manager of the Bank, closed his address to the shareholders at the annual meeting with these words:

"We are meeting today within a few hours of the sixtieth anniversary of Her Most Gracious Majesty's reign. The success we as a bank have met with during that reign calls for an expression of gratitude."

He made no apology for the fact that the year's profits had been the smallest in nine years and gave no evidence of the slightest loss of faith in the future. His judgment was sustained by events, for three years later profits had doubled.

Twenty-one new branches were opened during the ten-year period, making a total of forty-one. Assets increased from thirteen millions in 1894 to thirty and one-half millions in 1904, and the Bank was now represented in all important centres from Montreal to Vancouver. Canadian development was gaining momentum and the Bank was moving with it.

J. D. Hewitt and C. E. Kay, of New Zealand, had left Allahabad, India, while Lieut. M. Hansen, of Denmark, was en route to that control point.

Squadron-Leader D. E. Stodart and K. G. Stodart left Karachi, India, for Allahabad, while C. J. Melrose, of South Australia, prepared to take off from Karachi.

Flight Lieutenant G. Shaw, of England, remained at Bagdad, his undercarriage smashed.

RESULT IN DOUBT
Although Parmentier and Moll, the Dutchmen, were definitely second in the race, they prejudiced their chances of winning a place in the handicap division by dropping their three passengers at Albury, in order to facilitate the take-off in the mud.

Just as the Americans seemed to have every chance of getting second prize money, the Dutchmen got their plane out of the mud at Albury, 100 miles from here, where they had been forced down during the night. They flew to Melbourne in three minutes less than an hour.

Meanwhile from the interior came a flash that Turner and Pangborn were forced down at Bourke with engine trouble, not more than a third of the distance from Charlieville to Melbourne. They left before Parmentier reached Melbourne.

STRIKING CONTRAST
The Dutch crew and their passengers presented a striking contrast to Scott and Black, who raced into Melbourne yesterday for the $50,000 first prize and a $25,000 gold cup.

The occupants of Parmentier's big "flying hotel" were well groomed and wearing smart clothing, apparently as fresh as when they left London. In comparison, Scott and Black were unshaven, disheveled and badly in need of sleep.

In addition, the Dutchmen had flown at least 1,000 miles farther than the English team, making landings at almost every intermediate point on the long journey.

There were only four persons in the Dutch plane when it arrived here, the two pilots, Parmentier and Moll; a mechanic, Van Brugge, and the wireless operator, V. Prins. Thea Rasche, German sportswoman and aviatrix, and two Dutch bankers, who had made the trip as passengers, were left behind at Albury to insure a better take-off. The three were expected to arrive here by train.

HAVE MOTOR TROUBLE
Turner had considerable trouble all through the latter part of the race, from the time he left his way near Allahabad, India, defective oil pressure first caused him considerable anxiety over the Timor Sea. A defective valve was located by mechanics at Port Darwin, but trouble developed again en route to Charlieville.

Meantime, the spectacular British winners, Scott and Black, who flew the 11,300 miles, half-way across the world, in seventy hours, fifty minutes and fifty seconds, to smash all records, began catching up on the sleep they lost.

A personal telegram of congratulations from Queen Mary came to the winners while scores of messages poured in from others interested in the race.

The Queen expressed the hope they were "not unduly tired."

Scott wrote the Queen, himself and his co-pilot, thanking Her Majesty and assuring her they were "fit and well."

Behind the winners' achievement stands the figure of Capt. G. de Havilland, who, when the first race was first announced, declared he would produce planes capable of 2,000-mile hops at 200 miles an hour if he received three orders. Before there was even a drawing upon paper, the three ships were ordered, costing the pilots $15,000 each, although only De Havilland himself knows what the full cost of each ship was.

ESPECIALLY DESIGNED
The three Comets were the only ones which took off from here designed entirely around the race regulations, the others being standard machines altered to conform with the rules.

Colonel Moore-Brabazon, pioneer British motor and aviation enthusiast, said today:

"From the viewpoint of civil aviation, the Derby showed how far ahead of us the Americans are, when they can produce a machine like Parmentier's Douglas. Their performance should be taken to heart by all interested in civil aviation."

"As a physical feat on the part of Scott and Black, I consider their flight astonishing."

NEW SPEED RECORD
A new speed record for long-distance flights was established by Scott and Black.

They averaged 176.5 miles an hour flying time, and zoomed their plane along at a speed of 100 miles an hour for the total elapsed time. It took them 70 hours 59 minutes and 50 seconds to fly the hazardous 11,323 miles.

Wiley Post, during his round-the-world dash in July, 1931, averaged 134 miles an hour for the 15,596-mile flight. He reached Flat, Alaska, 11,767 miles from New York, in 89 hours 42 minutes, at a speed of 131 miles an hour.

M. Rossi and Paul Codos, of France, who, in August, 1933, set the world distance record, straight line, non-stop, of 5,653 miles, were in the air for 56 hours 13 minutes. They averaged about 100 miles an hour.

James J. Mattern, who failed in his attempt to circle the globe by plane in June, 1933, set a speed

MAYNARD TRIAL IS PROCEEDING

Many Questions of Procedure Retard Case in County Court Here

Trial of a charge against J. William Maynard of converting property, alleged to have been held by him in trust for Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, opened before Judge J. N. Ellis, of Vancouver, sitting in the County Court here, yesterday, and is being continued this morning.

The charge against Mr. Maynard involves a series of transactions alleged to have taken place between him and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and as a result of those transactions, the Crown alleges, the property situated at 2916 Fifth Street, Victoria, passed out of the control of the original owners.

A. J. Patton appeared as counsel for Mr. Maynard and Cleve White conducted the case for the Crown. During the early stages of the trial, there were several questions concerning procedure raised by the defence and somewhat retarded the submission of evidence bearing directly on the charge contained in the warrant. These technicalities, however, were fully argued and the case was permitted to proceed. Mr. Brown was called by the Crown as its first witness.

EXPLAINS TRANSACTIONS
Mr. Brown, in reply to questions by Cleve White, counsel for the Crown, recalled the story of the negotiations which had been conducted between himself and his wife on the one side and the accused on the other. Mr. Brown said that on August 19, 1932, he had signed an agreement in a blank, which was produced by Mr. Maynard at his house. Witness replied to Mr. Patton that the document was merely a printed form and that any writing on it must have been filled in later.

Under the arrangement, $5,000 was to be obtained for the property. The accused was to pay $35 a month until the sale took place and Mr. Maynard was to have $2,000 of a loan at 8 or perhaps 10 per cent interest out of the proceeds. A note for $5,000, bearing interest at 8 per cent, and repayable in two years, was given by Mr. Maynard to Mr. Brown.

HAD GRAPE WINE
Mr. Brown admitted that there had been a drink of grape wine served at his home on the day this agreement was entered into. He denied there was anything of that kind the day before, when negotiations were in progress. He also denied that there were any gifts, in the form of chickens, fruit, etc., to Mr. Maynard.

Further evidence that accused had paid less than $100 in twenty-six months in satisfaction of the deal, was produced.

A year after he heard of the mortgage having been placed on the property by accused, following the transfer of title to the latter, Mr. Brown testified.

OFFERED NEW DEAL
Dealing with the new proposition that was made, Mr. Brown claimed he agreed to cut down the price of the property by $500 provided payments were more promptly made.

Under date of January 30, 1934, a letter written by Mrs. Brown, and signed by her on behalf of her husband, was produced. It was addressed to the accused and, after complaining of the lack of payments in keeping with the original arrangements, suggested that a new arrangement be entered into at $4,500 as a total amount to be paid, with a long-term agreement by monthly statements, witness said. In the absence of any reply from the accused, witness said he informed the accused unless it was accepted at once he would rely on the original $5,000 price and would proceed to collect on the note for that amount which he held.

When the action came, he had turned the matter over to his lawyer, Harold Beckwith, with instructions to proceed on his behalf.

JUDGE HAS DOUBTS
"Where was the criminal offence if the accused did not keep up the payments?" asked His Honor of Crown counsel.
Mr. White contended that this was in evidence in the earlier part of the proceedings. The informant, when he could not get satisfaction with regard to matters, was ready to enter into a new agreement.

The court called attention to the letter, which suggested a new agreement and, in effect, a statement that if the accused did not enter into the second agreement, as submitted, he would have to pay the larger amount, the $5,000 in the original agreement.
The judge felt that the situation was such that he might well suggest to the Crown that consideration be given to what the future course would be with respect to the case.

Mr. Patton suggested that the case might be concluded, but Mr. White was not disposed to let it rest there.

The judge said he was not attempting to force the hand of counsel. He was only directing his attention to this particular phase of the evidence. He did not know what the Crown might still have in the way of evidence and ordered the trial to go on.

CONFUSION REIGNS
The forenoon gave rise to considerable confusion with respect to the case.

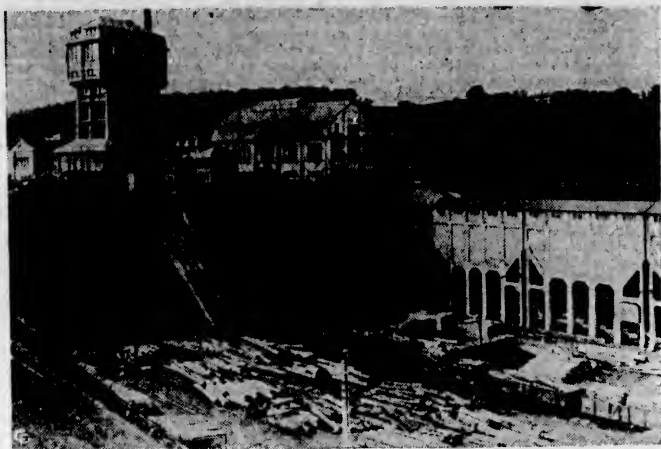

Judge Ellis said in view of the change of the trial judge, there should be a new election by the accused, and he should have the opportunity of making a new pleading. Crown counsel had not expected the latter move, and an adjournment was necessary to allow him to secure from the Attorney-General's Department a copy of the charge preferred against the accused to which he pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Maynard was charged with having unlawfully, while acting as trustee for the property of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, converted the property to his own use by placing a mortgage upon it.

Then there arose the question of the sanction of the Attorney-General to the action taken, which was held to be essential in such a case. When P. W. Laing, secretary to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, was called to prove the sanction, having been given, trouble ensued.

minier T. D. Pattullo as acting Attorney-General at any time during the absence from the city of Attorney-General Sloan, and another assigned to Hon. Dr. MacDonald the position of acting Attorney-General during the absence of Mr. Sloan or the Premier, was produced.

Objection was at once taken by Mr. Patton, who contended that there was no authority to convey the power of acting minister to other than one other minister. It could not be conveyed to "others," but only to "another."

The advent of the Premier upon the scene during an intervening period aggravated the situation, and there should have been a rescinding of the former Order-in-Council.

MUST BE CAUTIOUS
The court felt that in a criminal case it was not well to proceed, unless the matter were properly cleared up. On adjournment, the matter was settled by the production of the original minute of council, which appeared to correct The Gazette notice, and in view of the situation, the court ruled that the sanction of the Attorney-General had been established.

During the afternoon J. Y. Copman offered evidence as to the various transactions connected with the transfer of property and mortgages, which he had to do with as the legal representative of a client independent of the parties to this action.

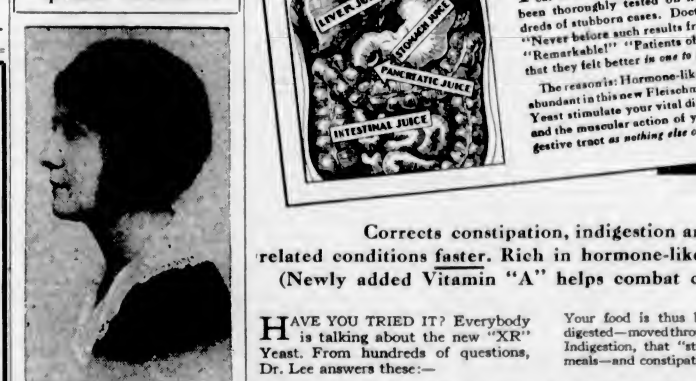

Harold Beckwith, for the Crown, gave evidence as to the steps he took for Mr. and Mrs. Brown by which the accused had turned back to the Browns the property concerned in the case. He had demanded and been assured of the return of the mortgage money placed on the property, but when this did not seem possible, he had accepted the return of the property subject to the mortgage placed on it by the accused, amounting to $2,500.

Mr. Patton will proceed on the opening of court this morning with the cross-examination of Mr. Beckwith.

The Provincial boards would be linked through a sales agency and all products apart from those for local consumption would be handled by the sales agency. All producers would be registered, all sales pooled and all packers and dealers, whether wholesale or retail, licensed.

"It is more efficacious," writes Mrs. Mabel Kinner. "Several years ago my doctor prescribed yeast to regulate me... my improvement was remarkable. Lately, I felt sluggish and nervous again. I ate the new 'XR' Yeast... now I feel wonderful. It acts quickly. I'm telling my friends."

A GREAT STORY

No story of the present year has so thrilled humanity as that of the great air race from England to Australia, and there is certainly no story of major news interest for many months to equal it in its appeal to people of the British Empire. The victory of Flight-Lieut. G. W. A. Scott and British aerial machines supremacy in long distance racing, just as they have had for several years the same supremacy in short distance speed tests. There has been no greater epic of the air written into the annals of aeronautics. There is a new red letter day for flying, a milestone on the road of progress. In the achievements of mankind in the past half century it may be doubted if any developments have been of greater importance to the future than those which have marked man's conquest of the air. Those developments open up an al- of the air. Those developments open up an al- most endless vista of possibilities. The pioneers, among whom the names of Scott and Black will occupy a foremost place, are making history.

Interest in the Melbourne Centenary Air Derby will be sustained for some days yet, as there are still a number of contestants to finish. The handicapper race has yet to be decided, and in this event the winners of the speed test appear to stand an excellent chance. There must be tales galore to be told of thrilling adventures, of intrepid daring, of high courage and of endurance. Some of these may never be related for the public hearing, as it is the habit of humanity to show a waning interest in events such as the Air Derby after the first contestants have reached the goal. Out of the event, more than could ever have been known before about flying conditions, engine capacity and the human element, has been learned and it will be translated to use in the future progress of aeronautics. That science will benefit extensively. Transportation by air will become more highly developed. The exploits of the flyers will stir up others to emulate them; in fact, an immense filip has been given to air progress by the latest Air Derby, and there are few stories of modern times that have aroused a greater measure of public appreciation.

MR. ROOSEVELT AND NATIONAL RECOVERY

The measures adopted by Mr. Roosevelt for the purpose of speeding up the process of American recovery were based on the theory that the troubles of the country were monetary in character. His advisers told him that there was not enough money spread abroad in the hands of the people at large, not enough purchasing power as compared with actual needs, and therefore there was but a small demand for commodities. The need was there, of course, but demand, to be effective, must include actual purchasing power, and this was either weak or absent.

His advisers told him further that an effective general demand for commodities would naturally and inevitably produce a rise in the price level. A rise in the price level would stimulate productive activity. This would necessarily increase the number of employed workmen, and the wages and salaries were earned and spent would further stimulate business and further reduce unemployment. How, then, was the actual need of commodities to be turned into an effective demand for the same?

Could it not be done by waiting patiently for the ordinary operation of the laws of supply and demand? In many lines of industry prices had fallen. Was it not reasonable to suppose that these reduced prices would attract customers? The fall in prices was very general. It applied to wages and rents, and things would gradually adjust themselves. Upon this point, however, Mr. Roosevelt soon made up his mind or had it made up for him by his advisers. There were between twelve and fifteen million workers unemployed. Industry and commerce were practically at a standstill. Agriculture was unable to sell anything they had produced. The crisis was represented to him as very great indeed, the danger was pressing, the patience and steadiness of the people were likely to fall. Something had to be done without delay. Mr. Roosevelt resolved to proceed by way of monetary measures. He would adopt artificial ways and means of raising prices and wages.

Everyone knows now, and a good many people knew then, that employers and employees in the United States had, a short time before, come to the end of a long continued and highly expensive joy-ride. Dividends and wages alike had been high, a condition of things which was foolishly thought by many to be a permanent one. Neither employer nor employee had exhibited much prudence or foresight. They believed, or tried to make themselves believe, the absurd doctrine that saving had once for all gone out of fashion, that thrift was a mere superstition, that everyone might safely spend and consume to the limit. There had been progressive expansion of manufacturing plants and lavish expenditure for machines and tools, a policy which meant a heavy bill for interest on capital expenditure. The standard of living had risen rapidly in all ranks of society. Not only was thrift largely forgotten; it even became usual to mortgage the future by instalment buying.

Neither employer nor wage-earner cared to face a long process of adjustment by means of lower prices and lower wages and troublesome economies. Moreover, public as well as private spending had been amazingly lavish. Taxes were high. There was little prospect of relief from this "burden," as it was now described with a sense of injury, although it was enthusiastically undertaken while the joy-ride was in progress. None of the joy-riders wanted to pay the price of their extravagance and unthrift. They wished, in fact, to dodge the payment of it.

When by means of governmental action the purchasing power of money is reduced, one class suffers and another class makes profit. Debtors are enabled to discharge their debts with dollars which are not as valuable as the dollars they borrowed. This applies to public as well as to private debt. Deliberate inflation of currency is at the expense of public and private creditors alike.

One weighty argument at least can be put forward in support of Mr. Roosevelt's "remedial" measures. It is that confidence was lacking and the need of the hour was a restoration of confidence. As a matter of fact there was at the moment no shortage of money in the United States. There was abundant credit available for any and every sound enterprise. Bankers indeed had such large resources at their disposal that for some time they had experienced much difficulty in finding profitable employment for it. Confidence was lacking. Mr. Roosevelt's great achievement was that he succeeded in restoring hope to some extent. There is still before him the task of restoring confidence to the extent of encouraging and assuring legitimate enterprises. That confidence is not likely to return until there is reasonable assurance that there is to be no more tinkering with the currency.

CLIMATE AND DEMOCRACY

It would appear, if one speculator on the subject is to be believed, that the success of democracy depends on climate and that climate is to blame for its failure in certain European countries. He says emotional excitability increases among people who live where there is warmth and brightness, and that such excitability is incompatible with democracy. It has long been known that climate influences character and conduct; the warmer it is the greater the chance of emotional crises, the greater the excitability among the people. It is in warm lands that there are stresses of passion. There is the illustration of the inhabitants of India, so often swept by gusts of political and religious emotion. The aboriginal Africans experience the same sensations.

The hardest people to govern are those with emotional tendencies, and so it is difficult for democratic institutions to survive in warm lands. In colder lands there is more cold reason, there are more equable tempers, there is a disposition to weigh happenings in the balance of experience and not to be carried away on the waves of passion. Warm climates thus seem to have the effect of unsettling reason and making for undisciplined lives. The conclusion is that where weather has its effect in promoting emotional temperaments democracy has a poor chance to survive. To the extent that the weather has been to blame for the establishment of dictatorships in Europe nothing can be done about it. So far that factor has had no recognition in international relationships.

SLAVERY TODAY

The announcement some time ago by Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, First Lord of the Admiralty, that some of the fastest destroyers in the Royal Navy had been sent to the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf to assist in the suppression of the active Arab slave trade, is a grim reminder that not yet is humanity rid of the "open sore of the world." A writer in a recent issue of the Nautical Magazine tells of observing an Arab dhow racing across the Red Sea, which at close range was seen to be packed with some 300 or 3000 starwark Negroes, evidently fastened by their ankles to the bottom compartment. A traffic in human flesh is evidently still going on between Africa and Arabia. This year's centenary of Britain's emancipation of her slaves has brought out an authorized statement that there are today about 5,000,000 persons held in some form of personal bondage up and down the earth.

AT WORDSWORTH'S GRAVE

The old rude church, with bare, bald tower, is here; Rotha, remembering well who slumbers near, And with cool murmur lulling his repose;

Not Milton's keen, translucid music thine; Not Shakespeare's cloudless, boundless human view; Not Shelley's fuz of rose on peaks divine; Nor yet the wild twilight Coleridge knew.

What hadst thou that could make so large amends For all that thou hadst not, and thy peers possessed, Motion and fire, swift means to radiant ends? Thou hadst, for weary feet, the gift of rest.

—Sir William Watson.

Their rage supplies them with weapons.—Virgil.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.—St. Matthew.

The birds which follow the boats to Victoria usually follow the boats when they make return trips. Or at least most of them do, for if they didn't they would become a pest. The fowls which have found out that the waters of Victoria's parks are good places of refuge from storms follow their leaders, wise both from inheritance and experience. Leaders of men make mistakes and lure their followers into traps and pitfalls. The gander at the head of the triangle hardly ever does that. He knows his way about, his eyes are keen, he has traveled far and has gathered wisdom from experience. The birds are never deluded by tales of Utopia or dreams of a promised land flowing with milk and honey. Nature has made liberal provision for their wants, but there is a provision in nature decrees that the children of Nature must help themselves if they hope to enjoy the bounties of creation. Nature makes provision for the needs of her children; but she does not gather her fruits and thrust them into the mouths of her wards. She helps those who help themselves.

If the readers of the newspapers of the present day ever read anything except the newspapers (and possibly some other works which they were better they had not read), they may remember something about the sensational story of the Promised Land. The followers of the leader in an ancient pilgrimage entered into their promised possession and stumbled because it was not as they had anticipated. The leader was barred at the threshold of that land of hope and not much glory. He was merely permitted to obtain a distant view from a high mountain—because of a hasty manifestation of lack of faith in the permanent success of his mission and the inspired source of it.

Throughout all the ages of mankind there have been many pilgrimages led by leaders who had promised to conduct their followers into promised lands in which they could establish themselves permanently "and lived happily forever after." The foot of no pilgrim ever trod that mystic land, although the leaders of the bands may have had visions of all its glories. Christian was, of course, an exception, but "The Pilgrim's Progress" was merely an allegorical presentation of a dream. Russia is a promised land, but the dream on which it was based has not yet come true. Trotsky and Lenin had visions, and no doubt Stalin still has his visions; Mussolini has his visions, and Hitler has his visions, but the followers of all these leaders are encountering stern realities. Their promises have yet to be redeemed, and the day of redemption seems to be remote.

The promised land of Utopia has not yet been discovered either in Asia or Europe; but it is being sought in America. President Roosevelt believed he had seen a vision of it through powerful glasses put up to his eyes by the Brain Trust. That vision has faded, like the baseless fabric of all illusions. Mr. Roosevelt realizes that his feet are never destined to tread the sacred soil of a promised land. So the President has abandoned his pilgrimage and is trying to find another way out of the jungle into which his feet have been guided by inexperienced theoretical leaders.

But while Mr. Roosevelt hesitates about the way he should go, another Democratic leader has taken the head of the procession and is trying to lead it in the way he is sure it should go. California is the newest and best of all the Utopias. Pilgrims are flocking into all parts of the Golden State from all parts of America. We expect pictures will be taken of that caravan, with Governor Upton Sinclair (we are told Sinclair is sure to be elected) at the head of it. The pilgrims have not been attracted by the lure of gold or any other kind of dross. They have been promised work (if they want it) and a life of ease if they are incapable or averse to labor. Apparently men in the States and some other countries no longer glory in the privilege of being independent. They rather consider the summit of ambition to be a life of ease with dependence. That appears to be the modern conception of Utopia.

That sort of Utopia, however, is an undiscovered and undiscoverable country. If wages are to be earned and paid, somebody must work. That is the fundamental economic law, and no authority given under the constitution of any country can repeal it. The conditions under which work shall be done and the profits of work divided may be altered, but men live upon the fruits of the earth, yielded only as the rewards of labor. Upton Sinclair has been a dreamer of dreams and a writer of books about financial and industrial jungles. He has had no practical experience in either private or public affairs. If he is elected Governor of California, the pilgrims who follow him there are likely to find themselves lost in an impenetrable jungle. The name of that labyrinth will be Sinclair's Folly.

Letters to the Editor

We notice that the editor will be interested in the proper "usage" and "address" of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 500 words in length.

THREE THOUSAND YEARS OLD

Sir,—In view of the present controversy over who should shoulder the increasing burden of unemployment relief, it is most interesting to reread the first recorded, or, at least, earliest historical record, of the problem was handled by a Jew in the land of Egypt—Genesis xlviii, 13 to 26.

It seems that even in those early days the power of money was the dominant factor, and the system of reverting land and property from the people to the State was resorted to as the only means of providing the people with the sustenance of life. Even our present plan of isolating the people away from their homes and mobilizing them in camps was resorted to as a precautionary measure for the safety of the State.

It is about 3,640 years since those early solutions were worked out by Joseph in the land of Egypt and, judging by the policy of our Governments in Canada, our education and scientific research and boasted civilization have not advanced our ability to solve unemployment beyond the primitive intelligence of nearly 4,000 years ago.

But one significant result of Joseph's solution of the problem of the people and the land, and bodies, was that he could not use them, and had to hand them all back again on a percentage basis without receiving a cent of the money he had loaned for them; in other words, Joseph's debt had to be paid back their real estate again by a form of taxation, which method still exists with us today.

Have we advanced so very much of what we call progress in the age of governments and governments? It should be noted that one of Joseph's, and as if a law of retribution exists in Nature, was that all Jews in Egypt became victims of a terrible bondage of slavery, which was later in deliverance by Moses.

Can we learn anything from those early attempts in solving our unemployment problems of today? And may we deduce how money is likely to hold sway or lose out with general public intelligence and modern grasp of economic laws, which are impartial in operation by the God of Nature?

Centralization of administration of relief the best and most economical method, or should we continue to let the government system as we have been doing up to the present time? If only one authority and one system of administration throughout the whole country were installed, would it considerably reduce the overhead charges of administration? The cost of the "free from political" party patronage and graft? Would it be more just and efficient in its disbursement of work and wages and in carrying out schemes of construction and improvement throughout the provinces? The cost of the municipal system according to the experiences of Joseph in Egypt, we are at present entering the stage of confiscation of property and bondage for debt. The burden of what to do with reverted houses and lands is facing our government already, and the next step will be to provide the people with seed and the equipment of farming the land to provide them with food and shelter. The cancellation of all mortgages and loans may come later when necessity forces the policy upon our rulers in order to prevent a total collapse of State credit and authority, or may we, in the twentieth century, be able to devise a better way? Wait and see. JAMES MOYES, 105 Regina Avenue, Victoria, B.C., October 20, 1934.

FRIENDLY HELP CAMPAIGN

Sir,—The Friendly Help Welfare Association is now in the midst of a campaign for the raising, by public subscription, of the sum of $45,500. May I, as one who has been in close touch with the work of the Friendly Help for many years, appeal to the citizens of Greater Victoria to do all in their power to help the association to obtain its object as early as possible, so that the great work can go on. It is the bounden duty of everyone who can subscribe, no matter how little, to do so without delay. Wet and cold weather will soon be here and many people are in want of shoes and clothing, to say nothing of food and other necessities. Think of children (if it were not for the help given by the Friendly Help) having to go to school without proper shoes or clothing, and in very many cases milk and food have to be provided. Unfortunately the demands this Winter will be as great as ever, and those who can possibly subscribe should do so to the limit. Surely nothing could make people happier than the knowledge of the fact that they had done their share to help those who are for the time being in need of assistance, and make it possible for that splendid band of workers who form our Friendly Help to meet all the demands that will be made upon them.

REEVE A. LOCKLEY, Esquimalt, B.C., October 22, 1934.

LIFEBEAT ASSOCIATION

Sir,—This letter is the twenty-third of the series being issued with the authority of the directors of the Vancouver Island Lifebeat Association. The last letter concluded the report of the rescue work at Cromer, in December last.

All this Summer and Autumn the work of organizing the shore staff and equipping the Number 1 Boat Station, at Clover Point, has been progressing. It is now arranged between the Provincial Police, at 615 Elliot Street, "A" Division Headquarters, and the directors of the V.I.L.A., that all calls for coast rescue service are to be sent in to Empire 1111, located between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. After office hours there will always be one of the following members of the division found at his house: Sergeant R. Harvey, Garden 3895; Constable H. P. Hughes, Empire 1079; Constable A. J. Carmichael, Empire 4070. At each of the above four telephones is hung a list of the officers and selected members of the crew of Number 1 Boat Station. Every coast watcher is requested to phone direct to one of the above numbers as this will save much time, especially as the Provincial Police provide a twenty-four-hour service in controlling coast rescue work.

A quarterly practice launch will soon be carried out with the co-operation of the Provincial Police, in order that all those concerned shall become acquainted as much as possible.

Members of the V.I.L.A. desiring to inspect the lifeboat, Victoria No. 1, are requested to make arrangements with the station secretary, Mr. H. R. Fletcher, 1482 Dallas Road, who will either take them himself to the lifeboat house, or arrange for Mr. A. Hearne, the station watchman, to do this. There is a white police board with the word "Lifeboat" outside 1482 Dallas Road.

Boat Station Number One requires the gift of a Malacca can, about three feet long. This can is required for cutting in half to make two throwing canes for light house lines. Anyone willing to donate a cane will please communicate with Mr. H. R. Fletcher.

F. V. LONGSTAFF, Major, Office of the V.I.L.A., 612 Bayward Building, Victoria, B.C., October 20, 1934.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of October 24, 1884.)

Chinese Actors.—The first Chinese actors ever to visit Victoria is at present appearing on the boards of the Victoria Chinese Theatre, in this city, and there are crowded houses nightly to witness this unusual billings. In addition to the large number of Chinese who attend the show, many white residents of Victoria are attracted by their curiosity and are viewing the presentation.

St. Louis Flyers Will Perform at The Winter Garden

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (CP).—President William Grant, of the American Hockey Association, said today a lease had been signed to insure games by St. Louis Flyers at the Winter Garden at St. Louis this winter.

Grant further said that the Garden will be remodeled to increase its seating capacity from the present 3,500 to 5,000 or 6,000.

The Amphitheatre has been leased for the National Hockey League Eagles, which open their schedule November 8.

Grant refused to discuss the assertion by his attorney in St. Louis that the possibility of keeping the National League from operating in St. Louis through injunction proceedings was under consideration.

PROTECT HOMES AGAINST THIEF

Chief Thomas Heatley Outlines Suggestions to Check House Prowlers

Now that the season of long hours of darkness is at hand and the police have received, during the past few days, numerous reports of suspicious looking persons prowling around the residential districts, Chief Thomas Heatley offers a word of advice to householders in an effort to protect them from the possibility of loss through burglary.

The chief sets out some of the things that householders should do. They are:

Keep one or more lights burning when out of the home. A dark house is an invitation to the prowler. Chief Thomas Heatley offers a word of advice to householders in an effort to protect them from the possibility of loss through burglary.

Make sure that valuables and particularly money are not kept in the house when there is nobody at home. Burglars look for cash and jewelry. If they do not find any, they soon become discouraged.

Do not hesitate to telephone police headquarters, Garden 4111, if suspicious characters are noticed in the neighborhood.

Keep all doors and windows safely secured at all times.

Pay particular attention to basement entrances. Prowlers have a particular liking for basement windows and back doors.

Co-operate with the police department in their efforts to keep Victoria free of house burglaries.

Finance Department To Place Taxation On Business Basis

Special Staff of Auditors Will Be Engaged to Check Up on Collections Under Main Revenue Laws of Province

As part of a plan to place income taxation and other revenue returns on a thoroughly business basis, the Department of Finance will put twelve additional auditors at work immediately with the express object of catching up on arrears of collections and tightening some of the loopholes through which revenues have formerly escaped, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced yesterday.

Mr. Hart made it clear that the department intends to adopt vigorous methods to see that existing tax laws are operated firmly and evenly, without either bias or favor.

The Province has wide powers to examine the books of any individual or corporation, and intends to make periodical audits where considered necessary.

Collections of income tax, the minister said, are much in arrears, and considerable revenues have been lost in the past through inadequate supervision of gasoline and fuel oil levies.

It is planned to select about a dozen highly qualified auditors, most of whom will be chartered accountants capable of making an independent survey of the books of any firm. For the most part these men will be employed in Vancouver and Victoria, but some will be available also for use throughout the province.

Applications were invited from qualified auditors by the Department of Finance yesterday, after Government approval of recommendations made by W. P. Kennedy, liquor commissioner. Mr. Kennedy said that the new regulations are without major change.

Frequently amended, the regulations became so distended and revised that consolidation was necessary, it was pointed out. The only change said to have been made in the revision is provision whereby applicants for beer licences, in mining areas, must disclose ownership of the land on which the proposed premises would stand and additional data.

FEES UNCHANGED
Licence fees for veterans clubs, club licences and otherwise remain unchanged. Regulations No. 22, No. 28 and No. 37 are among those now altered. These set out forms and conditions of application for veterans' club licences, club licences and general applications for beer parlor licences.

Prohibition of sale or use of beer on licensed premises before 10 a.m. and after 11 p.m. on week days, totally on Sundays and certain holidays, or during voting time at Provincial or other elections, is continued unchanged. In eastern sections of the province, the hours of sale are half an hour later all round.

TO SIMPLIFY RULES
Mr. Kennedy explained that the consolidation made for simplification of the regulations, and was in line with similar revisions made by the game branch and other Provincial departments yearly. This was the first consolidation of liquor regulations in recent times, and involved a mass of detail.

Asked if British Columbia would follow Washington state in a recent move to lower liquor prices, Mr. Kennedy said no price change was contemplated. The schedule already set is believed the lowest possible consistent with the quality of brands offered. British Columbia prices, it was pointed out, are based on "imperial" containers, in contrast to smaller measures in use south of the boundary line.

STORM TOLL IS MOUNTING

Snoqualmie Pass was covered by nearly a foot of fresh snow, but was being kept open, and Stevens Pass also was blanketed. In three hours early today, 38 of an inch of rain fell in Seattle, accompanied by a fresh wind.

Snow fell in Spokane for the first time, but it melted as soon as it touched the ground.

LOSS AT PORT TOWNSEND
Delayed word from Port Townsend, on Quimper Peninsula at the entrance to Puget Sound, estimated damage done there by Sunday's storm, at $200,000. Hundreds of homes were lightly damaged and a rail ferry dock, track, trestle and railway cars demolished.

Telephone, telegraph and power lines were still out in some localities. Plane service was delayed at Pendleton and Medford, Ore., and Seattle.

HAVE HEAVY RAIN
Gold Beach, on the Oregon Coast, had more than three inches of rain during the day, and, at Ariel, Wash., reported five inches from 8 a.m. Saturday to 8 a.m. today.

The possibility of more storm fatalities was felt tonight when the Coast Guard reported that three salmon trollers, the Dorothy, the Liberty and the Enterprise, were being sought. All points of refuge between Yaquina Bay and Bandon Point were being visited by Coast Guard boats.

Another Coast Guard boat found the missing auxiliary schooner Viking, of Seattle, safely moored in East Sound, near Anacortes, with all aboard safe.

WOMAN HOOKS GREBE WHILE SEEKING FISH

PORT HANEY, B.C., Oct. 23 (CP).—Mrs. J. Blackhall boasted today of something new in feats for fishermen.

Fishing on a bar of the Fraser River, she hooked what she believed to be a big, fighting trout. The strain on the line encouraged this belief. Reeling in, the fisherwoman landed a beautiful specimen of the western or swan grebe, which had hooked itself by the shoulder of a wing in diving. The bird was released.

WANTED TO BE FIRST MAN IN

Bedaux Explains Reason for Expedition—Denies Stunt-Ing Charge

EDMONTON, Oct. 23 (CP).—Charles E. Bedaux and members of his Northern British Columbia mountain expedition tonight were en route here by train. The party left Pouce Coupe, B.C., today, according to a copyright dispatch received by The Edmonton Journal.

Before his departure from Pouce Coupe, Bedaux gave flat denial to a report that the expedition was using Canadian mountains as a testing ground for a military type transport trucks, or tractors. He declared the reason for the trip was:

SURVEYING FOR ROAD
"I am a 'nut' who likes to do something no one else has done before. I believe that an international road, linking the United States, Canada and Alaska will be built. I believed this to be the most feasible route, and I want to be the first man to survey it."

"It has been suggested," he was told, "that your trip was in the nature of a publicity stunt in connection with the tractors you brought from France."

"That, of course, is ridiculous," he said.

Mr. Bedaux also denied that three of the five tractors taken into the North were destroyed purposely in the making of a motion picture spectacle.

FIRST ACCURATE MAP
First accurate map of the route which the expedition took from Port St. John toward Telegraph Creek, B.C., 1,100 miles away, has been added to the existing charts of the country.

It was prepared by F. C. Swannell, D.L.S., B.C.L.S., who, in addition, kept the log of the trip.

The log revealed that from Edmonton, the expedition reached a distance of 975 miles. Five tractors traveled 641 miles before they were lost or abandoned.

sity, which recently was granted autonomy by the Government and has been struggling to find funds to continue.

Students of the Chemical College denied charges of Police Chief Mendez that they were manufacturing bombs and co-operating with Catholics in preparation for an anti-government movement.

Prohibition of the sale of firearms and munitions was made effective throughout the entire country as the Government moved, apparently to prevent any organized effort at violent action by Catholic and other elements opposed to the Government's policies.

Importation of firearms was forbidden without permit from the War Department.

QUAKER OATS TO STAGE CONTEST

1,000 Bicycles to Be Given Away to the Best Answers in a 25-Word Essay

Joe E. Brown, the star in the forthcoming Warner Brothers' picture, "Six-Day Bike Rider," and the Quaker Oats Company, will give away 1,000 free bicycles to children.

All the boys and girls have to do is to write twenty-five words or less in answer to the question: "What Mother Thinks of Quaker Oats," and send it in to the Quaker Oats Company, Saskatoon, with two trade marks cut from Quaker Oats packages. The best answers, in the opinion of the judges, get the bicycles free.

This contest, which closes December 15, is open to everyone and the entries will be judged purely on merit and not on fancy writing or big words.

NEED MONEY FOR BUYING

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Recognizes Necessity of Cotton Market

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—Henry Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, asserted today that the United States must look to "increased purchasing power" rather than to lowered prices on cotton if it is to maintain markets abroad for its usual annual export of 8,000,000 bales.

"The rise of American cotton prices under the Agricultural Adjustment Act," Wallace told the Associated Press, "is not the circumstance which has brought about the reduction of American cotton exports in recent months. The really important cause of this reduction is the inability of some nations to obtain dollar exchange."

MUST SELL TO U.S.
"The only way other nations can get dollars with which to buy cotton is to sell goods or services to us. An increase in foreign purchasing power and in foreign ability to buy American cotton, can be brought about if this country permits increased exchange of imports for our dollars."

"Otherwise we may temporarily—or permanently—lose a part of our cotton outlet which has meant so much to the country as a whole."

Disappointment that Southern leadership has not been able to lower tariff walls in the past, was expressed by the secretary.

NOT FULLY REALIZED
He said he felt "the people of the South have not yet fully realized the extent of the decrease in foreign purchasing power for their cotton because of high duties."

The Administration's monetary policy, he said, has helped in giving foreign countries greater buying power so far as cotton is concerned, adding, "that has furnished a splendid breathing spell."

"That relief," he continued, "is only for a short period."

PROVINCE SEEKS INDEMNITY ORDER

When the Board of Railway Commissioners convenes here, on Thursday, November 1, an application will be made by the Department of Public Works of the Province of British Columbia with respect to the Alexander Sawmills, Ltd. ## MAKING REAL CONTRIBUTION

President of Canadian Press Tells of Work of National News Agency

SAINT JOHN, Oct. 23 (CP).—Henri Gagnon, president of the Canadian Press, told the national news association of daily newspapers was making a very real contribution to the present and future of the country by its gathering and distribution of the news of the nine provinces.

"Thus," he said, "it keeps our people informed, one of the other, so that you in the Maritimes have come to have an intimate daily knowledge of the problems confronting industrial Ontario and Quebec, the farmers of the Prairie provinces and our people of the Pacific slope."

"Indeed, I would venture to say," continued Mr. Gagnon, who is managing director of Le Soleil, Quebec, "that through this great agency in the Canadian Press the bugle cry of Maritime rights calls right across the continent, wherever Canadian hearts beat."

"In Ottawa we maintain a large Parliamentary staff, covering the news of every variety of governmental and departmental activity, and during the session of Parliament, putting out a report of the proceedings of the Senate and the House of Commons, impartial and unbiased, for, of course, the first essential of any great news service is accuracy, which means it must be free of any suspicion or taint of partisanship, giving the people of Canada a factual report without opinion, of the doings of their political leaders and elected representatives."

"Unbiased reporting is its most important asset, and it is gratifying to know that the Canadian Press is now a hall-mark generally recognized throughout Canada."

Mr. Gagnon said the Canadian Press directors represented all sections of the country and had come to Saint John from as far off as British Columbia to imbue with the single idea of giving their best service to the business of "this national association, which, perhaps with pardonable pride, we feel is making a very real contribution to the present and to the future of our country."

(Copyright, 1934, by the North American Publishing Co., Inc.)
LONDON, Oct. 23. — Of all the physical and intellectual competitions I know, there is nothing more grueling, nerve-racking and devastating to health than a world championship bridge match, played before an invisible audience of millions of super-critical kibitzers.

You cannot telegraph the details of bad strokes in golf or a missed blow in prize fighting, but, in bridge, not only are your rotten bids and plays pitilessly exposed in all their horrible stupidity on the pages of every newspaper in twenty different languages, but a careless error in a single hand may decide a championship.

So, Saturday, we American victors and holders of the Schwab Trophy, emblematic of this world championship of contract bridge, were fit for a hospital. For five solid days and nights, at the rate of sixty agonizing deals per day, we were under a doctor's care, having lost ten pounds by what certainly is the best reducing system yet devised.

Before the match my weight weighed 115 pounds. Today she is a nervous wreck under a doctor's care, having lost ten pounds by what certainly is the best reducing system yet devised. Throughout the match, she fought like a brave little soldier. Never once did her morale even so much as falter. We men—my partner, Teddy Lightner, and her partner, Al Morehead, as well as myself—cracked a little now and then, for, in any crisis, men always will crack sooner than women.

We won because of the stronger morale and stamina of the American team, whose members had had more experience in championship play, coupled with a superior technique of plays and leads. In bridge, as in war, it is the last quarter of an hour that counts. It did not really matter what happened during the first 270 boards, provided, of course, that catastrophes were avoided.

The English lost the match because they were not able to stand against the veteran American team. Under the terrific strain of the last thirty boards, they broke down—and that was a lesson one learns in the book of life, and not in a bridge book.

USED SAME SYSTEM
It was a fight of players against players, for, except for an occasional interjection of an artificial club bid, the English and the Americans were playing the Culbertson system at its best—and frequently at its worst.

It was apparent that the English, nettled by successive yearly defeats, had made a determined effort to put the very best team into the field, and, after careful elimination from thirty-two of the greatest English players, they were successful. We never have played against such bridge talent in Europe. It is true, however, that, in play and leads, the English still are old-fashioned, and lack of modern defense against the dummy, as well as inferior technique in the play of the dummy, caused them the needless loss of many points.

In this way, we held a terrific advantage, because we used the modern system of leads and plays, and frequently, although playing the hands at the same contracts, the modern technique of our team would gain a decisive extra trick.

UNDER AMERICAN RULES
The match was played under American rules, and the Portland Club's decision, barring the four and five no-trump convention, which made such a sensation a few months ago, was wholly ignored by both the English and American players. The British gave a brilliant exhibition of skill. I did not expect that, after ten years of successful championship play against the best talent of America, I would be pushed against the wall by an English team, desperately fighting for every lead, finesse or squeeze. It is apparent that American supremacy in bridge is being challenged seriously by Europe and that in all future matches we will have very hard going.

There never was such an atmosphere of cheer, good will and friendly sportsmanship in any bridge match, nor have I ever had such delightful opponents to contend with. There is no question but that the English are wonderful sportsmen. When we were being badly beaten, I saw the English making an effort of will not to show, by a gesture or even a look, their pleasure at the success of their own side. And when we were winning, I noticed the same effort of will to suppress a natural disappointment.

After our victory, a great cheer went up that was much more enthusiastic than if their own side had won. We Americans looked a bit shamefacedly at each other, for we knew that our victory was not really deserved and that we had won only because we had had more lucky breaks than they.

Edmonton Girl Trying to Find Out Who She Is

EDMONTON, Oct. 23 (CP).—Baffling authorities in their efforts to identify her—unable to even remember her own name—a pretty, eighteen-year-old Ukrainian girl was still confined in hospital today, four days after the dazedly wandered into the office of an Edmonton doctor and presented a slip of paper with his name and address written on it.

The short, brown-haired amnesia victim can talk quite rationally, but her memory seems to be gone completely. She can vaguely recall street addresses and names of buildings in Edmonton, but can't remember her own name or anything about herself.

Canada Important To Resuscitation Of Art of Music

John Goss, Eminent British Singer, Addressing Women's Canadian Club on "Necessity for Music," Expresses Some Original Views

THAT Canada—a great British amateur tradition behind it, within the United States and all the world's great artists who gravitate there, and having within itself "central springs of energy and imagination about the sources of which Europe is gradually losing the knowledge and the secret"—is in a position to play an important part in the resuscitation of music, is the opinion of John Goss, eminent British singer, who addressed a capacity audience at the Women's Canadian Club meeting, yesterday afternoon, at the Empress Hotel.

Speaking on "The Necessity for Music," Mr. Goss did not temporize, but in the most downright and uncompromising way expressed his views on various phases of the subject.

SPIRITUAL VITAMINES

"Music is an art, perhaps the greatest of all the arts. It is as necessary to the mind as are vitamins to the body. It is a defence against the maladies of the soul, and gives a final flush to the enjoyment of spiritual things," he maintained at one point.

He urged Canada to get away from the idea that art, particularly musical art, was effeminate; he criticized Canadians for their assumption that music was not "a serious concern of go-getting men"; he challenged the widely-accepted idea that the British were not an artistic people, citing the high standard of British choir music and the front-rank position occupied by such instrumental ensembles as the London String Quartet; he questioned the value of musical festivals, and he took a strong stand on "the vexed question" of radio, leaving no doubt whatever in his listeners' minds that he has a violent dislike of broadcast music.

"I have been and remain a heretic in this matter. I have no doubt that for infants, invalids and ailing mothers the radio is something of a boon and a blessing, and it may bring solace and refreshment to those who live far from the normal haunts of civilized men. But as a cultural instrument, I think it is the most pestiferous invention that has ever been added to the torments of harassed humanity," he said.

"I know," he continued, "that thanks to this beneficent machine we are asked to believe that soon a new and loftier race will rise with light of knowledge in their eyes. But I don't believe it. My own considered opinion is that unless man gages this whining, snivelling, belching levathan, it will drive him mad. Or, if he would avoid insanity, he must cultivate an aural immunity which, while allowing him to go about his daily life, apparently undisturbed, will reduce his subconscious to a jangling bedlam. In some cities you cannot enter a taxi-cab without your ear being assaulted by this rasping horror, and I am told that wireless bath taps will soon be all the rage, so that as you turn on the hot water, you may have an accompaniment for your maternal gargling."

"These are not matters of educational or cultural interest; they are but the subject matter for studies in the more depraved forms of human pathology. A reaction will inevitably set in, I have no doubt. At present what is euphemistically called 'the listener' is merely unaware. He only knows that if he would bath the baby, solve a crossword puzzle, make love, or beat his wife, he must first switch on the radio, this having become a vitally necessary background to all his household pleasures and duties. He is like an inattentive gastronomic

To Be Heard Over the Air Daughters of Pity Had Most Successful Year

MISS MAUD NEILSON

Who has been engaged by the British Broadcasting Corporation, London, to sing nine classic songs in the Empire Broadcast Canadian Zone on November 2, between 11:15 and 11:55 p.m. English time, and will be heard in British Columbia from 3:15 p.m. This will interest many friends of Miss Neilson, who was born in Glasgow, and came at an early age to make her home at Quamichan Lake, V.I. She was educated at The Poplars School, Victoria, and was a frequent visitor at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. J. Shaw, of South Salt Spring Island. She first studied singing with Miss Eva Hart, of Victoria, and later in Paris, London and Italy. For three years she was the leading lady of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, and has had many other important engagements.

the president had announced that all members would be expected to attend, that night, a most important meeting to discuss sewage disposal. In his innocence and natural vanity, Mr. Goss thought his own concert was the most important event of that day in that town, but he realized that no slight was intended, as it was naturally assumed that all the wives and daughters would attend the recital while the sturdy males wrestled with the more vital matters of sanitation.

HIGHER HOUSEKEEPING

Nevertheless, Mr. Goss rather deplored this attitude. It encouraged a tendency to regard art from the purely domestic viewpoint, making the utterances of musical genius a branch of higher housekeeping.

Puritanism and the "rampant industrialism of the nineteenth century" were responsible, he said, for the theory that the British were not an artistic people, having been too occupied in making money and consolidating Empire to cultivate the higher centres. This had made whatever musical art the British possess into a proletarian art, and despite their fine choir the Britisher deems it preposterous that in musical composition and orchestral and chamber music work he should be anything but second-rate, or that he should ever produce a great artist or performer of international significance.

Canada was not guiltless in the Britisher's habit of waiting for the foreign stamp of approval upon her artists before acclaiming them herself. A Canadian impresario had told Mr. Goss that he never included a Canadian artist in his programmes because his audiences demanded the glamour of foreign names.

"I thought this was delightfully British," commented Mr. Goss. The Americans were not so reticent, and were beginning to realize that they must boost their native artists with the same vigor that they boosted their other products. The Britisher seems to want the stamp of foreign approval on his artists before accepting them himself. Mr. Edward Johnson or Mary Pickford confound their careers to Canada, the land of their birth, they would have been considered by their compatriots as "very small beer."

This led to the speaker's criticism of Canadian musical attitudes: First, its extremely British modesty about the talents of its own nationals; second, its assumption that music was not the serious concern of men.

PURELY SUPPLEMENTARY

Canada's educational system, the competition festival movement, and broadcasting were considered by the speaker to be purely supplementary. Only by the repetition of fine performance, actually experienced, could musical tastes and standards be developed and maintained. Musical communities could not be created merely by teaching children the piano and the singing of patriotic songs, or by having an annual competitive jammerie, or by switching on the radio. These things were all very well in their way, but unless they created a desire to hear the best music at first hand, their effects were very soon died away.

Mr. Goss maintained that unless the Women's Auxiliary to the Tuberculous Veterans Post No. 18 held a successful sale of work, in the Victoria Truth Centre, recently. The sale was opened by Mrs. Kylie Symons. The different stalls did a thriving business all afternoon. The novelties were in charge of Mrs. Ashworth and Mrs. Standwick, and the black cat was won by Mrs. Booth. The aprons were won by Mesdames Clark and Gibson, and the doll in a contest went to Miss Elsie Richardson. Candies were sold by Mesdames Hampton and Hall, and the cushions, donated by Mrs. Nunn, by Mrs. Barrologh. A supper was convened by Mrs. Standwick.

Guild of Sunshine

The monthly meeting of the Guild of Sunshine was held at the Social Club, Ganges, the president, Mrs. Stuart Holmes, in the chair and thirteen members present. One new member, Mrs. H. Cross, was elected. The hospital representative, Mrs. M. B. Mount, reported the purchase of a new bedside table for the Sunshine Ward in the Gulf Islands Hospital, the approximate price of the table being $12. Much wool had been purchased to be knitted into articles for the Christmas hampers. This was distributed for that purpose among the members. Arrangements were made for a sale and tea, to be held at the Social Club on Saturday, November 7. There will be the usual rummage, Christmas gift, home cooking and candy stalls. The tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. H. Noon and Mrs. W. Norton.

Cowichan W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. to the Cowichan Hospital Association was held at the Nurses' Home, on Monday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. G. H. Savage, in the chair. Satisfactory reports from the new sewing and mending committees were received. Miss Wilson reported that much new linen had been made up during the past month, and that the hospital mending was being kept up satisfactorily, and asked for more help for the latter part of November. She also reported the gift of a clock for the sewing room. Plans for the annual bazaar on December were advanced, and many offers of help from women's organizations in the district were received. Tea was served by Mrs. H. W. McKenzie, Mrs. R. A. Thorpe and Mrs. O. T. Smythe.

Willing Workers' Circle

Members of the Willing Workers' Circle of the King's Daughters met at the home of Miss Joyce Goggin, 1026 Southgate Street, last Saturday evening, with Miss Ethelene Clearidge presiding, and also leading the devotional period. Arrangements were made for the completion of a quilt, which the members are making. It was reported that several of the members had assisted at the tea held in honor of Mrs. Leibert, the international president. Donations of jam were received at the meeting to be sent to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club. Refreshments were served, the hostess being assisted by her mother, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded them. The next meeting of the circle will be held at the home of Miss Gladys Roberts, 127 Cambridge Street, the date to be announced later.

Bridge Club

The first meeting of the "Bedlin" Bridge Club was held at the home of Miss Doris Smith, 503 Esquimalt Road. The prizes were won by Miss

Victoria Women Extend Welcome to Miss Allen

General Foods, Limited, Cooking Expert Conducting Classes at David Spencer, Ltd. — Cake Contest to Be Held on Saturday

When Jane Taylor Allen, cooking service expert of the General Foods, Limited, Toronto, and conductress of the General Foods' radio school, begins to talk about food and its preparation, she is quite irresistible. At least, that is what several hundred Victoria women proved yesterday by attending the first session of her five days' cooking school, being held at David Spencer, Ltd., second floor.

It is not only that she connects such particularly delicious dishes, but she is so practical, so methodical, and so really human, that all who attended her classes in previous years are delighted to welcome her again, and to glean a new collection of excellent recipes from her almost limitless store.

Yesterday afternoon she made several "appetizing" dishes, some of which the "pupils" were allowed to sample, and three lucky spectators were presented with a pudding, a

MARINE, RAIL and AIR

Inquiry Bureau of Imperial Airways Kept Pretty Busy

Expert Has to Answer All Manner of Questions Pertaining to Travel by Air—Is Veritable Encyclopedia

LONDON, Oct. 23.—With more than 500 passengers during holiday times flying to and from across the Channel daily, one of the busiest departments at the Airway Terminal, London, is the Inquiry Bureau, which was established not long ago by Imperial Airways.

Here, sitting beside a telephone, is an expert who is ready, at any moment, to answer questions concerning travel by air. He is surrounded by time tables, weather data, and reports and information of all kinds. It is his job to know everything, not only about flight along the European air lines, but also about the route from England to the East, and that romantic air line which takes passengers to the heart of Africa, and carries urgent loads in nine days from London to Cape Town.

Nothing comes amiss to him. He is an airway encyclopedia.

POPULARITY GROWS

This summer has seen a growing popularity in tours in which flying alternates with trips by train, steamer and motor coach. The Inquiry Bureau has found much to occupy him in planning such combined trips for holiday folk. From arranging the details of a personally-conducted tour to Switzerland, or a fortnight's excursion by flying boat over the Mediterranean, the Inquiry Bureau will turn to the details of an air trip as far as the Belgian Congo, or will pick up the telephone to tell some inquirer what time an air-mail letter posted in London will be delivered at Bangkok in Siam. And then, after that, he may be running through the preliminary details of an expedition in which a party of hunters are to fly out to the big game lands of Africa, taking their guns and equipment with them, and camping out each night under the wings of their machine.

"Many of my queries," he explains, "concern dispatching mails by air, or the times of arrival in London of air mails from points along the Empire routes. Questions crop up, too, as to catching some outgoing air mail with late urgent letters. In such cases, even if ordinary letter box dispatches may have been missed, it is possible to rush a letter to the airway terminus at Victoria in time to catch the motor coach leaving for the airport. There is also the possibility, as a last resort, of ringing up the postoffice at the airport at Croydon and dictating over the phone any short letter which will be taken down and included in the load of a plane just about to start.

"Many of the questions that I have to answer deal with journeys along the Empire routes. When you fly from England to the heart of tropical or semi-tropical lands, and do so in a few days, you have to consider the clothing you will take with you. I am also asked for hints as to the varying climatic conditions of an Empire air trip. Passengers also want to know about the hotels and rest houses along our Empire routes.

TIME IMPORTANT

"In the majority of my inquiries, as one might imagine, the time factor is all-important. This applies particularly to the booking of 'air specials' for rush journeys. A business man may ring up from a call box at a London railway station. He has missed by a minute or so a train which is the only one that will get him to some special time in time to catch an outward-bound liner on which he has booked his passage. Well, that is in a case for some quick staff work on our part. By the time that business man has got down to Croydon by taxi or car, we have a fast airplane waiting for him, and he flies to Liverpool, or wherever it may be, in ample time to catch his boat.

"The chartering of 'air specials' is greatly on the increase. Big liners are now being booked for pleasure cruises, just as are liners of the sea, the air crews including smart, white-jacketed stewards who serve meals and refreshments while in flight. Surgeons and doctors make rapid journeys by air. Patients make trips by flying ambulance. Business men book 'air taxis' to fly them to urgent interviews on the Continent.

"All this means work for the Inquiry Bureau. But the busier we are, the happier we feel, because we know that air travel is saving hours, days, or weeks for those who are in haste, or is helping people out of difficulties from which the speed of the airplane is the only thing that will extricate them."

RADIO SHOW CONTINUING

Victoria Dealers Busy Demonstrating Long and Short Wave Models

Ever since Monday, the opening day of Victoria's Radio Show week, every radio store in the city has been the scene of intense activity. Radio fans are flocking in to see and compare the 1934-35 models which are displayed.

With the presentation of the new lines, radio features a spectacular development in short-wave and world-wide reception. To a great extent perfect programmes from standard broadcast stations have become an accepted thing. The radio has taken as important a place in the home as the chess-table suite or any other accessory which goes to make life modern and comfortable.

With the introduction of short wave, radio enthusiasts can receive, the pride of achievement and the awe which was theirs when they listened to Chicago or Philadelphia a short decade ago. Short wave has lowered the barriers of distance, pierced international barriers and has made the entire globe a stage for the owner of a short-wave set.

CLEARER RECEPTION

In addition to this new thrill in radio, there is the assurance in short-long-wave receivers of even better, clearer reception from standard stations, which every listener has come to know and love. Short wave has changed nothing save the quality of these broadcasts, but has opened up a wider field, which enables the radio in the home to carry one on magic wings to foreign countries.

Victoria radio dealers are making a special feature of short-long-wave sets during radio show week, giving every visitor a genuine welcome, ready to explain the merits and advantages of short-wave reception. Acting in an advisory capacity, they will endeavour to help the individual home with regard to radio installation.

GOOD ANTENNA

The importance of a good antenna is a point which is heavily stressed. While the antenna should be carefully installed, it is by no means an elaborate matter. A single horizontal wire, T or L type, twenty-five to fifty feet in length, will provide ample pick-up. It should be of fairly heavy wire, say No. 14, high up and as much in the open as possible. Well insulated at both ends, it should not parallel power lines. The lead-in should be brought indoors through a lead-in insulator, not of the windowstrip variety. All joints should be soldered. Equal attention should be directed to the ground connection.

STRIKERS MAKE EMPTY THREAT

Attempt to Prevent Loggers Working at Alberni Comes to Nought

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 23.—The strike situation at Camp 5 of the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company, again flared up today when the striking loggers declared they were going to prevent by force, if necessary, any more loggers going to work to fill their places.

Yesterday the three Provincial police officers who were on duty when the train and passenger stage arrived, found that the strikers were attempting to control the situation. Today, however, after threats were made, extra police were rushed here from the east coast. Strikers, seeing that the police held control, contented themselves with moving from one place to another, and the police saw that they were kept moving. Provincial Police were stationed along the railway, platform, and ten police gave protection to stage passengers.

The strikers issued a daily bulletin, which is circulated around the city.

HYDROGRAPHERS SURVEY STRAIT

Good Progress Is Made by Dominion Party in the Charting of Northern Waters

QUEBEC, Oct. 23.—Using the most modern instruments, charting operations have been carried out by the Dominion Hydrographic service the last two seasons in Hudson Strait to a point where the southern coast of Baffin Island is now charted from Frobisher almost to Lake Harbor.

Progress of the work was described by P. C. Gouding Smith, Ottawa, chief of the Hydrographic Service, expedition of the Department of Marine, who went north in August on the Government ice-breaker, N. B. McLean, and returned here in the vessel Saturday.

ON NORTH SHORE
Main part of this season's operations, Mr. Smith said, consisted in the extension of last year's work on the north shore of the strait.

The base of the expedition was located on the lower Savage Islands, a small group of high bare rocks set in the middle of the turbulent Gabriel Strait. Through this strait, Mr. Smith stated, tidal currents sweep with such fury that the islands are seldom visited, even by the Eskimos. The islands have no plant life, but a few white foxes manage to eke out an existence on the bleak slopes.

Seals are plentiful enough and Polar bears and walrus find the rocks a convenient "stopping-off" place during their winter travels. Southeastern Baffin Island is gloriously capped by the Great Orinell Glacier, whose glistening white surface can be seen from far out at sea.

Besides Mr. Smith, the expedition included T. M. Tardif, technical assistant; Capt. D. M. Snelgrove, of Ottawa, and a group of nine assistants.

STATISTICS
TELL STORY
Planes of Canadian Airways Carry More Express Than United States Lines

More express is carried each year by Canadian Airways than by all the United States domestic air lines. Statistics announced by the United States Department of Commerce show that during 1933 all internal flights in the United States carried 1,510,215 pounds, while during the same period Canadian Airways carried 2,522,233 pounds, and during the first nine months of 1934 (January 1 to September 30) express pounds carried by this company reached a total of 4,229,820 pounds.

This statement was made, recently, during the luncheon hour meeting of the Mining and Natural Resources Bureau of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, at which W. B. Burchall, advertising and publicity manager of Canadian Airways, spoke on "The Contribution of the Airplane to Canadian Mining."

F. V. Siebert was chairman. Factors that have influenced the adoption and rapid expansion of air transport in Northern Canada are: (1) the topographical characteristics favoring air operations both in Summer and in Winter; (2) the qualities of extreme mobility and speed possessed by the airplane whereby services can be instituted in immediate response to demands for transportation, irrespective of distance from established lines of communication; (3) the gold situation, which has resulted in unprecedented mining activity in territory almost devoid of ground transport.

OUTRICK FACILITIES
Mining development has quitted the facilities provided by surface transport. This is well exemplified in Manitoba, where six out of Manitoba's seven gold producers are located fifty to two hundred miles from a railroad. They also lack a direct water route, even for the Summer months.

Never before in the history of air transportation in Canada have such loads been transported as were carried during the past three months. For one month alone (August, 1934) express carried by Canadian Airways almost equaled the total for the whole of 1931. In 1931, for twelve months, express totaled 764,449 pounds; in 1934, for August only, express totaled 717,024 pounds.

This exemplifies well the contribution being made by the airplane to the mining industry, for most of this express was carried to mining areas, from air bases in Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Northern Alberta and British Columbia.

Other writers do not criticize, but write of the peace and quiet they found here, and a great number promise to return for a week or two next Summer.

SHORTEN THE LONG EVENINGS
After sundown, when playtime arrives for those who have been working hard all day, it is true relaxation to slip down town to a show or to friends for a game of bridge.

The convenience of the COACH LINES bus service—frequent schedules—low fares—no parking problem—makes it the most popular form of transportation for these jaunts.

Never before in the history of air transportation in Canada have such loads been transported as were carried during the past three months. For one month alone (August, 1934) express carried by Canadian Airways almost equaled the total for the whole of 1931. In 1931, for twelve months, express totaled 764,449 pounds; in 1934, for August only, express totaled 717,024 pounds.

This exemplifies well the contribution being made by the airplane to the mining industry, for most of this express was carried to mining areas, from air bases in Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Northern Alberta and British Columbia.

Other writers do not criticize, but write of the peace and quiet they found here, and a great number promise to return for a week or two next Summer.

SHORTEN THE LONG EVENINGS
After sundown, when playtime arrives for those who have been working hard all day, it is true relaxation to slip down town to a show or to friends for a game of bridge.

The convenience of the COACH LINES bus service—frequent schedules—low fares—no parking problem—makes it the most popular form of transportation for these jaunts.

STATISTICS
TELL STORY
Planes of Canadian Airways Carry More Express Than United States Lines

More express is carried each year by Canadian Airways than by all the United States domestic air lines. Statistics announced by the United States Department of Commerce show that during 1933 all internal flights in the United States carried 1,510,215 pounds, while during the same period Canadian Airways carried 2,522,233 pounds, and during the first nine months of 1934 (January 1 to September 30) express pounds carried by this company reached a total of 4,229,820 pounds.

This statement was made, recently, during the luncheon hour meeting of the Mining and Natural Resources Bureau of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, at which W. B. Burchall, advertising and publicity manager of Canadian Airways, spoke on "The Contribution of the Airplane to Canadian Mining."

F. V. Siebert was chairman. Factors that have influenced the adoption and rapid expansion of air transport in Northern Canada are: (1) the topographical characteristics favoring air operations both in Summer and in Winter; (2) the qualities of extreme mobility and speed possessed by the airplane whereby services can be instituted in immediate response to demands for transportation, irrespective of distance from established lines of communication; (3) the gold situation, which has resulted in unprecedented mining activity in territory almost devoid of ground transport.

OUTRICK FACILITIES
Mining development has quitted the facilities provided by surface transport. This is well exemplified in Manitoba, where six out of Manitoba's seven gold producers are located fifty to two hundred miles from a railroad. They also lack a direct water route, even for the Summer months.

At the Theatres

CAPITOL George Arliss, the theatre popular English actor, is now appearing on the screen of the Capitol Theatre in "The Last Gentleman." Filmed by 80th Century Productions, this picture is drawing large crowds to the theatre. Edna May Oliver, Charlotte Henry and Frank Morgan are also seen in the film.

PLAYHOUSE The twenty-four most promising girls selected from more than 1,100 tested by Fox Film in a drive for new talent were signed by the studio. The studio believes this to be the largest number, other than extras, ever signed at one time. Their first picture was "Stand Up and Cheer."

by a gang of unscrupulous men and when they turn it into the real thing, makes this film one of the outstanding ones of the year, full of intrigue and daring.

COLUMBIA George Barbier, who specializes in exciting father roles, admits that his role in "Many Happy Returns" could never be improved upon. In the picture, which is now at the Columbia Theatre, Barbier is cast in the role of the most harassed father he has ever had to portray, the dad of Gracie Allen.

SPEED IS ESSENTIAL IN PRESENTING REVUE

If A. B. Marcus, who will offer his World o' Girls at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Wednesday, October 31, were to reply honestly to the query as to what single quality the success of a big musical show in general and his own in particular, might be attributed, he would reply, "Speed—with a capital S."

The Marcus troupe has several distinctions of its own. It is the oldest theatrical attraction in America in continuous operation under the same management. For twenty-eight years Marcus has conducted a girl-and-dance troupe under his banner. It is the first big company from the Western hemisphere to tour the Orient and back with more than it went out with.

REVUE IS ACCLAIMED BY THEATRE CRITIC

"The entire stage show was good, and action was the highlight of the entertainment," said the theatre critic of The Vancouver Sun when speaking last week of the appearance of the revue, "Girls in Cellophane," which will open its Victoria engagement at the Empire Theatre on Friday.

"The star, even in this galaxy of good entertainers, was not hard to choose. Billy Wade clowned his way into the hearts of his audience. This young man has more original jokes at his finger tips than anyone seen here in a long time."

"Acrobatics by the Rex Family, magic by Dorothea and Andre, tap dancing routine by Meehan and Conrad, starting singing by Leland Adair and good music by the Club Monte Carlo Orchestra are some of the outstanding acts."

"WHITE CARGO" WILL BE OFFERED IN CITY

"White Cargo," the play that caused so much comment, favorable and otherwise, when it was first produced in New York and London some years ago, will be brought to Victoria next week by the International Players of Vancouver.

It will open its local engagement at the Empire Theatre on Thursday, November 1, and will show three days with a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

Nola Luxford, who has gained great popularity in Vancouver, will play the leading role, that of the native girl. She has given many fine performances in Vancouver and elsewhere, and her forthcoming appearance here is keenly anticipated.

Offers Outline Of Central Bank To Kiwanis Club

A brief outline of the Central Bank of Canada was given yesterday to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel by David McMillan, local manager of the Dominion Bank.

The Central bank will be a national enterprise, he stated, and will open early in the coming year. Its chief function, Mr. McMillan declared, would be to operate as a regulator of internal credit. It would also regulate foreign exchange, the speaker stated.

"The Canadian Bank will serve as an adviser to the Provincial and Federal Governments," he said. It will control the Canadian monetary unit, but there will be no advantages for individuals.

"If you think this Canadian Central Bank is some kind of a Santa Claus Emporium, you had better change your minds, because it definitely is not," he concluded.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

AN INFORMATIVE PASS
High cards are located in the opponents' hands by two main methods. One method, of course, is by reading the opponents' leads, discards and general manner of defence. The other method, which is equally if not more important, is a careful review of the bidding.

Each bid that either of the opponents has made should give to the satute declarer a certain amount of information. Naturally, when playing against tricky opponents who resort to a great many psychic bids, the task of locating high cards from the bidding is much more difficult.

There is one inference which can be made, however, which is sure, whether the opponents are sound or psychic. This inference is derived not from an actual bid made by a player, but from his failure to make a bid. Since no player in his right mind will decline to make a good sound opening bid, certain high cards may often be assumed not to be in the hand of the player who passed originally. For example:

At any rate, against the optimistic four-spade contract West opened the club ten. East won with the king, laid down the ace, and then led the jack. South's queen won the third round, the thirteenth club of course being set up in dummy.

South now knew that he could fulfill his contract without ruffing any hearts in dummy, merely by playing the ace of spades and then cashing his king of diamonds. He works played the spade queen and then a low spade to dummy. The diamond ace and the good club were cashed for two good heart discards, and dummy's singleton heart was now led. East, quite properly ducked, and South, without hesitation, played the jack.

It is true that the East player had doubled two spades for a takeout, thus implying that the East hand contained most of the high cards. However, South remembered one thing, which was much more important, and that was that the East player had passed originally. East had shown up with the ace-king-jack of clubs and very probably had an honor in diamonds to stand a three-diamond response to the take-out double. If East held the heart ace in addition, he would have had over three honor-tricks and could not very well have passed, no matter what system he was using. With the heart ace marked in the West hand, the heart king could not be the correct play, and the jack was indicated. Since East held the queen, South's jack forced the ace, and the contract of four spades was fulfilled. It was not a bid made, but a bid not made, which gave South the clue.

Train Wreck Seen As Highlight of Colonist Newsreel

THE twisted wreckage of a Buick-Blackpool Express, mute evidence of the smash which killed fourteen and injured many others at Warrington, England, is but one of the highlights of The Colonist Universal newsreel, now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Gigantic manoeuvres when troops "invade" England and the British fighting forces in mock action. An orchid display, valued at half a million dollars, attracts horticulturists from all over the country to Newton Square, Pa. Thrills galore are shown in the motorcycle obstacle race in Winnipeg.

Other glimpses of international interest show the hard-fought game at Pittsburgh, when the University of Pittsburgh Panthers crushed the University of Southern California in a 20 to 6 victory, before 50,000 football enthusiasts. In Milan, Italy, half a million acclaim Mussolini as he speaks from a platform in front of the famous cathedral.

Visits were paid to Napoleon's tomb, Notre Dame Cathedral, Versailles, the battlefields and other places of interest. "A funny thing in France was the total lack of soap at the hotels and the space breakfast given tourists," Dr. Russell remarked. "A grapefruit cost forty-nine cents extra."

Continuing the traveler went through Lucerne, a portion of Austria, and then to Germany. Leaving Germany, he went to London and Glasgow, Scotland.

DECLARES HITLER DOING GOOD WORK
Dr. William Russell Gives Kiwanis Club Account of Recent European Visit

Declaring that his opinion of Hitler had been "tempered" since he witnessed the effects of the German Chancellor-President's work from within, Dr. William Russell, yesterday, gave an account of his recent tour to Europe to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel.

"There is no evidence that the German people are passing through a period of economic stress," stated Dr. Russell. "The only things we read about Hitler in many of the papers are the faults he possesses. Nothing is said of his beneficent work, such as unemployed and veterans' homes, homes for mothers and care of undernourished children," he declared.

Starting out from Victoria, Dr. Russell went to Chicago and New York. He declared extremes of conditions could be viewed in the latter American metropolis. Cherbourg and Paris were reached after the Atlantic crossing. Visits were paid to Napoleon's tomb, Notre Dame Cathedral, Versailles, the battlefields and other places of interest. "A funny thing in France was the total lack of soap at the hotels and the space breakfast given tourists," Dr. Russell remarked. "A grapefruit cost forty-nine cents extra."

Wreckage Found May Be of Liner

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 23 (AP).—Wreckage of an airplane found near Wilson's Promontory, was believed today to be part of an airways liner, missing with ten passengers, since it left Launceston, Friday morning, for Melbourne.

It was believed the machine crashed into the sea in this vicinity, spring Island youth, on a charge of breaking and entering the store of W. B. Powell, at Duncan, on June 24, in the assize court here, today, the jury disagreed. They deliberated nearly two hours before reporting to Justice Murphy that it was impossible to reach a decision.

A situation seems to have arisen in this country whereby a Red is anyone who has less than yourself and resents it.

Peden and Team in Front After Wild Jamming in Grind

Local Six-Day Bicycle Rider Sends His Outfit to Fore in Points as the Boys Circle Toronto Pine Saucer

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (CP).—ing the way. The German team of Torchy Peden, of Victoria, had his team leading the way in Toronto's six-day bike grind at 1 o'clock this morning as the nine three-man teams rolled past the forty-ninth hour. Torchy and his partners, Syd Cosen, of London, England, and Polly Parrott, of Victoria, had pedaled 997 miles and had 420 spin points to their record.

The Peden outfit hopped in front when the jamming started at 10 o'clock and when the hectic night rides around the Maple Leaf Gardens pine saucer had ended the British Empire team was still showing the way.

U.S. TENNIS HEAD NAMES CANDIDATES

Youth Will Be Factor in American Davis Cup Team for 1935 Campaign

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—Prospects of a new deal, concentrated on rugged youth, for the 1935 United States Davis Cup squad, loomed as a definite possibility today when Walter Merrill Hall, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, named eight likely candidates for the next international team.

The list is headed by Wilmer Allison, the Texan, who was rejected for the 1934 team, then almost won the national championship; besides the four members of the 1934 team, George M. Lott, Jr., Sidney B. Wood, Jr., Frank X. Shields, Lester Rollo Steffen, and three youngsters, Gene Mako and Donald Budge, of the Pacific coast, and Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville, N.J., schoolboy.

"HOOLEY" SMITH WILL BE CENTRE

To Lead Maroons Attack in N.H.L. —Lynn Patrick Shows Class in Workout

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23 (CP).—With "Hooley" Smith as spearhead, the Maroons' National Hockey League entry will again be hurling rubber at opposing netmen this year. Tommy Gorman looked them over in practice today, and apparently had little difficulty announcing that the colorful "Hooley" would again be flanked by "Baldy" Northcott and Jimmie Ward.

Maroons mixed football with their second day of training, while, in the New York Rangers camp, Lester Patrick was content with seeing his men on the ice.

"Babe" Pratt, Kenora Thistles outstanding star last season, joined the Rangers today, but Lester Patrick stated he would return to his amateur club on the arrival of Ching Johnson and Earl Selbert, Ranger holdouts.

Tommy Gorman termed the two new Moncton Hawk recruits, Sammy McManus and Aubrey Webster, "sensational." He was also impressed with the performance of "Dutch" Gainer, returning to the national Hockey League after one season with Calgary Tigers of the Northwestern Professional League, and Herbie Cain, wingman from Newmarket, Ont., formerly with Detroit Olympics and Chicago Black Hawks.

PATRICK LOOKS GOOD

Newcomers to the Rangers alternated on two forward lines. The recruits from Vancouver Lions, in the Northwestern circuit, Bryan Hextall, Charlie Mason and Clint Smith, made up one, and Bert Connolly, Moncton, Lynn Patrick, from Montreal Royals, and the veteran Art Somers, formed the other. Highlight of Patrick's school of graduates was Lynn Patrick's smartness around goal.

Lionel Conacher arrives tomorrow to complete the Maroon contingent.

Eyesight of Old-Time Fighter Is Fading Gradually

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—Blindness, dread affliction of old prize fighters, is stalking Little Jack Sharkey, once a bantamweight title contender in the days of such fine champions as Pete Herman, Joe Lynch and Kid Williams. Sharkey, with the $200,000 gone that he earned with his fists, has lost the sight of his right eye, and that of the left is fading. Medicine holds no hope for him. Doctors said he would be completely blind within three or four years.

His last fifteen-round fight with Lynch packed the old Madison Square Garden. He retired in 1925 after ten years of warfare.

COLONIST AND LAKE HILL TO PLAY TONIGHT

Expect Real Tussle Between Newsies and Suburbanites at High School Gym

Interest is running high over tonight's battle between The Colonist basketball squad, last year's city and Vancouver Island men's senior "B" champions, and the clever Lake Hill team, which will commence about 9:30 o'clock in the Victoria High School gymnasium.

A win for either team will boost them into the league leadership, as the premier honor is now split three ways with The Colonist, Lake Hill and Beavers.

Opinion as to the outcome of the big game is divided, and the only fact on which all basketball enthusiasts are agreed is that it will be a "real battle."

To open the programme at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Doo Dads and Hudson's Bay men's senior "C" teams, will take the floor.

In the second fixture, two intermediate "A" quintettes, Fernwood Merchants and Kingham-Gillespie will line up against each other.

For The Colonist, Lloyd Jones, Scott, McKeachie, Moore, Florence and Surphills will play on the forward line, while Stipe and Elliott will do duty as guards, and Clarke will jump at centre.

Lake Hill forwards will be R. Mitchell, B. Mitchell and Bates, with Cunningham at centre. Jones and Atkinson will be guards.

CAVALCADE MAY MEET EQUIPOISE

Leading Thoroughbreds Are Being Groomed for $100,000 Handicap at Los Angeles

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—If and when Cavalcade, "the" horse of the year, and C. V. Whitney's mighty little chestnut, Equipoise, match strides, it probably will be in the $100,000 handicap, February 26, at the newly-constructed Santa Anita track, near Los Angeles.

Mrs. Dodge Sloane has announced the retirement of Cavalcade for the remainder of the year. Equipoise has not been seen on the track for a week, indicating that he will not be in shape to start his comeback in the $25,000 special stake at Narragansett Park, October 31.

NEEDS MONEY

Both owners have designs on the rich West coast handicap, however, and will point their stars for the event. Equipoise needs the money if he is to supplant Sun Beau as the world's leading money-winning thoroughbred. A triumph for Cavalcade would boost the three-year-old's earnings above the $200,000 mark, and give him a good start for 1935, during which he will be asked to give plenty of weight to his rivals.

Canadian Lacrosse Body Plans Series For Dominion Title

Salmonbellies and Montreal Verduin Expected to Play for Mann Cup Early Next Spring—Trophy Forfeited by Orillia Terriers

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 23 (CP).—Montreal Verduin and New Westminster Salmonbellies will play a Dominion championship lacrosse series early next Spring for possession of the Mann Cup, forfeited by the suspended Orillia Terriers.

If plans of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association materialize, President Dan McKenzie announced today.

Mr. McKenzie stated that such a series might be held either in British Columbia or in Montreal. He said the Salmonbellies club favors the proposal and that he understands Montreal would also endorse it.

Orillia defeated Verduin in the Eastern semi-final series and eliminated Salmonbellies in the final, played at Barrie, Ont.

SANCTION REFUSED

The C.A.L.A. refused to sanction a post-season exhibition series between the Terriers and Vancouver St. Helen's in Vancouver and announced the clubs and players participating in the series would be suspended indefinitely and the Mann Cup taken from Orillia.

Terriers made the trip to the Coast despite the ban, and three games of the series have been played.

"I will recommend expulsion of the St. Helen's and Terriers to the C.A.L.A.," President McKenzie stated.

He also announced that, immediately following the Mann Cup games, the champions of the United States, Inter-Collegiate Association would be brought north to stage a series against an all-star Canadian team for the P. J. Laiff Trophy, at present held by the Johns-Hopkins University team, which won the title two years ago.

FAVORS SUGGESTION

MONTREAL, Oct. 23 (CP).—Officials of the Quebec Amateur Lacrosse Association, of which Verduin Athletic Club's team is champion, welcomed the idea of a Spring series between Verduin and New Westminster Salmonbellies for the Mann Cup, which was forfeited by Orillia Terriers.

The suggestion of Dan McKenzie, C.A.L.A. president, was favored by E. A. Pilon, Q.A.L.A. president, and Marie Conway, secretary-treasurer, tonight, when they were told of McKenzie's action.

Fred Pilon said he was delighted, and that every co-operation would be given by his organization. He said: "Verduin, I think, is the best team in Canada."

Conway ruled, meanwhile, that the Q.A.A. awaits further word from McKenzie.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23 (AP).—Another record was wiped off the books today, in the world's horse-shoe championship, when Guy Zimmerman, of Sac City, Iowa, threw twenty-eight consecutive double ringers in an exhibition match with Dean Brown, of Riverside, Cal.

The old mark of twenty-five was set up by Jim Lecky, of Phoenix, Arizona, whom Zimmerman will meet in the round robin match play which starts tomorrow afternoon.

Macabees team will be selected from the following:

Wilmhurst, T. Graves, M. Speller, W. Graves, Fieldhouse, Hill, Gurnod, M. MacBride, Howard, A. McBride, D. Newell, D. Jack, J. Roberts, and A. Knowles.

Mainlanders Chalk Up Impressive Win Over Eastern Squad

Vancouver Stickhandlers Take Lead in Second Quarter and Stay Out in Front — Is First Victory Over Mann Cup Holders

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—A sturdy defence and a fast-stepping forward line halted Orillia Terriers, conquerors of New Westminster Salmonbellies in the recent Mann Cup final, and gave St. Helens, of Vancouver, a 14-11 victory here tonight.

It was Terriers' first defeat by the Vancouver club in their scheduled exhibition series—a series which the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association refused to sanction and which the Dominion president, Dan McKenzie, declares will cost the Eastern team the Canadian title.

Orillia took a short-lived lead in the first quarter when Tommy Scott, Butch Boettger and Bill and Ernie Curran whipped shots past Happy Smith in the St. Helens goal. Bill Chestnut, Bill Mirhitt and Johnny Dale scored for St. Helens in the opening period.

HOTELMEN TAKE LEAD

Five goals in the second quarter, two by Mickey Maquire and the others by Angie McDonald, Charlie Hartney and Haddie Stoddard, while Terriers were held to Ed Downey's lone tally, sent the hotelmen into an 8-5 lead at half-time.

The Vancouver squad increased its lead in the third quarter in a six-goal spurge. Stoddard, Dale, Chestnut, G. Weinborn, Doc Nicoll and Ken McDonald each scoring.

Bill Curran and Bill Wilson scored the only goals of the quarter.

Two smart passes by Ernie Curran, a belated rally in the final quarter netted the visitors four goals, but fell short of catching the hotelmen, although the latter were held scoreless.

Remember When (Twenty-Five Years Ago)

On a sticky field, and in very unpleasant weather conditions, Victoria West senior soccer eleven defeated the Esquimalt at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday by three goals to one. The match, one of the senior league fixtures, was of an uninteresting character, the state of the field precluding fast or good football.

For the second time the absence of an official referee caused the postponement of a senior division game in the soccer league. The A.O.P. team was scheduled to play the J.B.A.A. eleven yesterday at Oak Bay Park, but no referee put in an appearance and the match was called off. A practice match, however, was arranged between those members of the two eleven who stayed and braved the elements and a good work-out was had, the score being given out as three to nil in favor of the Foresters.

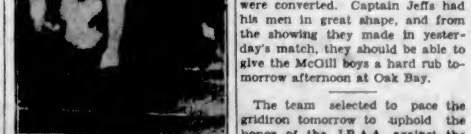

J.B.A.A. rugger held their final workout yesterday afternoon, when they won from John Arbuckle's picked fifteen selected from members of the Victoria Rugby Club. The Bays went over the line for two tries, while Arbuckle's team got over but once. None of the tries were converted. Captain Jeffs had his men in great shape, and from the showing they made in yesterday's match, they should be able to give the McGill boys a hard rub tomorrow afternoon at Oak Bay.

The team selected to pace the gridiron tomorrow to uphold the honor of the J.B.A.A. against the visitors follows: Fullback, Byron Johnson, three-quarters, Caras, Thompson, Bendroit and Nason; Halves, Grimmerman and Newcombe; forwards, Leo Sweeney, Captain Jeffs, Miller, Jack Sweeney, Wilson, Frank Sweeney and Robson.

ARMY RUGBY CLASSIC BILLED FOR NOVEMBER 10

Canadian Scottish Will Battle Fifth Regiment Ruggers

Soldier Squads Will Fight for Possession of Prized Fordham Johnson Trophy in Annual Oval Ball Engagement — Saturday's Fixtures

War clouds will hang over Macdonald Park on November 10, when the annual Army Rugby match is staged, with the fighting Fifth Regiment and the dashing Canadian Scottish on opposing battlefronts.

War lords of the Victoria Rugby Union drew up preliminary plans at a meeting held yesterday, in the Colonel's board room.

Spillover of the great battle will be the Fordham Johnson Trophy, which will be defended by the artillerymen. Wars have been waged each year, usually on Armistice Day, over the trophy since 1931. In the first encounter the "kilties" emerged victorious, but the following year they were held to a draw. Last season the heavy fire of the artillery unit routed the Scottish.

LAYING PLANS

Within a few moments of the announcement of the declaration of war between the two camps, every Scottish fighter and fifth gunner was busy laying his plans for the battle next month. Army generals of the two units quickly clustered themselves with their colonels, majors and aide-de-camps, for they cried, "This is war!"

Through information which has leaked out from the two army headquarters, it was learned that both fighting squads will engage in frequent, secret military manoeuvres during the coming weeks.

Early local skirmishes by the Fifth have shown they are fighting men and know the tactics of war on the open field, and many expect the army to have little trouble in conquering the Scottish. However, experience has taught the artillerymen their infantry rivals are hard opponents and must not be taken lightly.

In the Canadian Scottish camp there is even now a spirit of "or die" that is welding the unit into a powerful fighting machine.

GOOD SPORTSMEN

November 10 will be a great day, win or lose, for both teams, and those spectators who manage to crowd their way to the front line at Macdonald Park will witness one of the greatest Rugby battles yet waged in Victoria.

Both teams are noted for their sportsmanship, their fair play and ability to play a good game. Every player will be on his mettle. A review of previous years' classic games assures all that next month's clash of the two fifteens will be one to "stand up and cheer."

All the thrill of a real contest will be present. A big crowd is expected, and all other Rugby matches have been cancelled in deference to this battle.

To the skill of the pipes, provided by the Canadian Scottish pipe band, the two teams will trot onto the field at 3 o'clock. The game will have dual significance as it will count as a league fixture, besides being recognized as the contest for the coveted Fordham Johnson Trophy.

LEUT.-GOVERNOR TO ATTEND

It is expected the Lieutenant-Governor will attend the match and at its conclusion present the trophy and congratulate the winners.

At the present time the runners are favored to win, due to their enviable record so far. No team has yet beaten the Fifth this year, while the Scottish bowed before the Navy and were held to a draw by the heavy Garrison squad.

The "kilties" however, have profited by their experience, and they plan to muster a fifteen that will outfight the fighting Fifth.

Lawson Little and Benjamin Eastman Lead Athletic Poll

California Golfer and Distance Runner Well Up in Voting for James E. Sullivan Memorial Medal for Outstanding Achievement

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—The most highly prized of all amateur athletic awards in the United States, the James E. Sullivan Memorial Medal for outstanding achievement, has been voted to Lawson Little and Benjamin Eastman and William Lawson Little, Jr., ranking well on top of the field of candidates so far put forward in a nation-wide poll.

Competition for the medal, which is awarded annually by the Amateur Athletic Union on a voting basis, has been reopened to include representatives in all United States amateur sports for 1934.

Last year, when Glenn Cunningham nosed out his mile-running rival, Bill Bonthron, by a single vote, candidates were limited to the branches of athletics controlled by the Amateur Athletic Union.

CONTEST WIDE OPEN

Now, however, with the contest wide open again, Little has a chance to gain the same distinction that went to Bob Jones, who was voted the Sullivan Medal in 1930, after completing his "grand slam" in golf. The Californian registered a "little slam" this year, by capturing both the British and United States amateur golf championships, but his achievement ranks among the greatest for 1934 in any branch of amateur competition.

Meanwhile, Eastman's foot-racing come-back this year was so startlingly effective that he wound up by having five world records officially credited to him, ranging from his 440-yard mark of 46.4 made in 1932, to his amazing 880 in 1:48.4 made at Princeton last June.
